Editorial

The Melford Matters team was deeply saddened by the death of our Queen after 70 wonderful years as our Monarch. But wasn't it great that the nation was able to mark her Platinum Jubilee in June in style?

Neighbourhood Plan referendum on 27th October

The Neighbourhood Plan group has been hard at work since 2016. At last, after six years, the Plan has been approved to go to a referendum – see page 22. Three cheers for that. And please be sure to use your vote.

Problems with the GP surgery

For years, many of us have been moaning about our GP practice and how difficult it is to get through to on the telephone and get an appointment. Now the official regulator of GP practices has rated it 'Inadequate', put it in 'Special Measures' and given it six months to improve – see page 8. Our lovely village deserves better healthcare than we've been getting.

But what a great village to live in...

On a happier note, in the last issue I asked for newcomers to Melford to tell us what they think of living here. Lisa Robertson wrote:

"We moved to Melford from Newton Green because we wanted a smaller house and garden, within the village and near to all its excellent facilities. Orchard Brook ticked all the boxes and we are very happy living on this estate.

The village itself offers so much to its residents and it is so well run. There never needs to be a dull moment! Opportunities to participate, volunteer and organise abound. The atmosphere everywhere is always friendly and welcoming."

More comments from new residents would be very welcome.

SONGS OF PRAISE

"Many thanks Mark, for a most kind, attentive and exemplary service. Nothing is too much trouble, no request unanswered, no detail left to chance. It is readily apparent, that the swift and happy conclusion to our house sale, is down to your untiringly dedicated work ethic and professionalism. I cannot commend you highly enough to others. You have been brilliant - thank you."

Big Night Out: 11th November

There was a lot of uncertainty around whether the traditional Big Night Out firework display would take place at Melford Hall this year. Project Seven, which has run the event in the Hall's grounds for the last 48 years, was disappointed to learn that the National Trust had refused to grant a licence for the event to be held.

Many supporters of the Big Night Out and local residents were very upset to hear the news and wrote to the National Trust expressing their concerns and many cancelled memberships of the Trust. There was also a protest event on the Green opposite Melford Hall on 25th August.

After a few meetings and negotiations, the National Trust has agreed to grant the licence for the event to go ahead this year. The Trust and Project Seven have agreed that there won't be a bonfire this year, for both financial and environmental reasons.

The event will be on Friday 11th November and Project Seven hope for a really good turn-out as all the proceeds are distributed back into the community via local charities and organisations. For more details and tickets, see www.projectsevenuk.co.uk/big-night-out

As for 2023 events in Melford Hall grounds, Amy Hyde Parker said "The finer details are being negotiated to ensure that all events can continue."

Melford Hall Looks to the Autumn

Our open season this year has had a great spring and summer – we've welcomed lots of visitors.

Throughout this year, we've worked with some of our local schools and Curious Spark (a local heritage, arts and cultural education company which aims to engage communities with local history using interactive experiences). The theme for our project is 'Putting on a Progress'. It brings to life the 1578 Progress of Queen Elizabeth I through Suffolk and Norfolk, which included a visit to Melford Hall.

In the half-term week in late October (exact dates to be confirmed), Curious Spark will be offering visitors to Melford Hall the chance to step back into 1578 and immerse themselves in a virtual reality experience. Visitors will be able to enter this Elizabethan world where they can drop into Privy Council meetings and see entertainment laid on for the Queen.

We'll be updating our website, so keep an eye out for dates and times: www.nationaltrust.org.uk/melford-hall

Halloween Half-Term Fun at Kentwell

A Halloweenies event for children aged 3 to 14 will be held in the half-term holiday from 22nd to 30th October in Kentwell Hall's grounds. Activities include: Making a Wand, Attending Sorcery School, the Broomstick Challenge, Following the Heffalump Trail through the grounds, Exploring Secret Tunnels, Dancing to the Piper in the Magic Circle, plus much more.

Children are welcome to dress up in Halloween or any other costumes and must be accompanied by an adult.

Advance booking is essential as numbers are limited. See www.kentwell.co.uk/events/ halloweenies

Melford Good Neighbours – How We've Helped

Do you know just how much of a difference the team of 25 Good Neighbours volunteers makes to LONG MELFORD GOOD NEIGHBOURS others in the village? In 2021, we supported 87 different people in our Parish. We:

- made 317 medical supporting trips (eg taking people to appointments, collecting prescriptions, etc)
- completed 239 trips to social activities (eg to coffee mornings)
- took villagers on 20 other trips for such things as shopping or accessing their finances
- carried out 7 DIY jobs
- helped out in 7 gardens.
- gave IT support to 2 people and helped with form filling for another.
- made 243 befriending telephone calls
- made 2 face-to-face befriending visits (the low number was due to Covid restrictions)
- held 11 Coffee Mornings supported by the Friends of the Library, with an average of 21 people attending.

If you'd like to join our team, or need help from our volunteers, please call us on 07504 249179. Please leave your details and someone will get back to you.

Terrence the Terrier is 2000 Years Old

A recent archaeological excavation at Melford's football ground has revealed some exciting discoveries. Perhaps the most interesting for the layman was finding the skull of a 2,000-year-old dog. It was recovered from the foundations of a rare Iron Age Building. A local vet confirmed the skull to be of a terrier-like breed. The excavation team christened him Terrence. Dogs held a special place in the ritual of Iron Age and Roman Britain and so the location of the skull could be of particular significance.

Come On You Blues

The Melford branch of Ipswich Town Supporters Club runs a bus to every home league match. IPSWICH TOWN

It starts opposite the Cock and

Bell at 1pm for 3pm and 6pm for 7.45pm kick offs and delivers fans right outside the Ground.

It costs just £10 return (£5 return for first timers) And it's comfortable, economical and fun. Phone 07930 581879 or 07818 400196 for more details.

Try us, join us, the future is bright, the future is BLUE AND WHITE!

Melford Poppies WI Garden Party

The Melford Poppies held their annual garden party at Melford Hall for the first time since 2019.

There was a traditional afternoon tea with Pimms or tea, served on the lawn in front of Melford Hall. We enjoyed a delightful duo of guitarist and singer, entertaining us in the sunshine.

We then moved into the Hall where our speaker, Oggie Weldon, displayed her handmade hats. She gave us a detailed history of hat making with demonstrations, then we got to try some on. Her top tip: never wear a hat wider than your shoulders!

Jean, Lady Hyde Parker was presented with a bouquet and thanked for once again allowing us to hold our party at Melford Hall.

During the month-long excavation 77 children from Melford's primary school visited the Heritage Trust Museum. After they had voted for their favourite exhibits, they visited the excavation site, where they were encouraged to sieve soil and identify artefacts.

Concert in Memory of Patrick Kohler

A concert by the Kingfisher Ensemble led by Beth Spendlove will be held on Saturday 8th October at 7.30pm in Holy Trinity Church. This is in memory of Patrick Kohler, the long-term chairman of Melford Music. There is no entrance fee but a collection will be held and all proceeds will go to the church.

The Silver Band – Passing on the Musical Baton

Our Musical Director (MD), Nigel Partridge, is retiring at the end of the year and we're looking for a successor. We're a friendly Band and play to a good standard. We meet weekly on Wednesdays at the Old School and have a healthy number of engagements throughout the year from fetes and community events to formal concerts.

The MD's role includes selecting the music, conducting the band and raising playing standards. If you're interested in picking up the baton, please contact Band Secretary Harry Copsey at harrycopsey@outlook.com

New Litter Picker Leader Needed

Long Melford Litter Pickers are looking for someone to run our group in 2023. All we need is someone willing to recce the village before each pick to identify the area where we're most needed; look after the equipment and take it to/from the meeting locations; and email members with meeting locations and times.

If you could spare a few hours a month to play a part in helping to keep Melford clean and tidy, please consider running this happy group.

Contact Julie Thomson on 01787 375329 or email Longmelfordlitterpickers@gmail.com for more information or to volunteer.

Intriguing Tales Our meetings are on ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY the third Thursday of the month at the Old School and start at 7.30pm. Membership is £10 a year and visitors are very welcome at £3 per meeting.

20 October 2022 – Anne Grimshaw: 'Collision in the Clouds'. At a WW2 commemoration visit to France, Anne was given a pair of flying goggles and told where they were found. Unable to resist a challenge, Anne will take us on her historic voyage of discovery.

17 November 2022 – Sarah Doig: 'Beyond Hatches, Matches and Dispatches'. Local historian and author, Sarah, has searched the parish records. This evening she'll tell us stories of collapsing spires and extreme weather conditions, as well as tragic and humorous tales.

SESAW Gear Up For Christmas

The Suffolk and Essex Small Animal

Welfare (SESAW) Christmas Fair returns to the Old School on Sunday 20th November from 10am to 3pm. There'll be a wide range of stalls with crafts and gifts for the festive season, refreshments and Jeanette's terrific Tombola.

Christmas Fair at the Library

The Friends of Long Melford Library will be holding their Christmas Fair on Saturday 26th November, 10am to 12.30pm. There'll be winter bulbs, fudge and delicious preserves on sale, alongside a raffle and tombola. If you haven't been to our new home at the former Royal British Legion Social Club on Cordell Road, the Fair will be a great opportunity to get into the festive spirit and help support the village's library.

Melford Matters is a not-for-profit community initiative funded through advertising and donations. It is produced and distributed by volunteers and printed by Indigo Ross Design & Print Ltd. The magazine welcomes contributions from everyone in the village. For further information please refer to the Long Melford Village Hall website, https://www.longmelfordvillagehall.co.uk/melford-matters, or email the editor, melfordmatterseditor@gmail.com, or advertising team, melfordmattersadvertising@gmail.com.

Health Matters

Alarm Bells for the GP Practice are Ringing Loud and Clear

The results of an inspection of the Melford GP practice in July by the Care Quality Commission (CQC) are damning. The CQC is an independent regulator of health and adult social care in England and came up with the following findings.

- Are services safe?
- Are services effective?
- Are services caring?
- Are services responsive to people's needs?
- Are services well-led?
- Overall rating

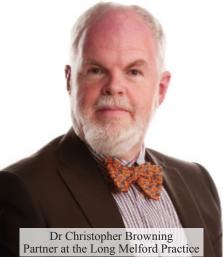

Inadequate Inadequate Good Inadequate Inadequate Inadequate. Any patient who has any concerns or questions about their practice is encouraged to contact the local NHS Patient Advice and Liaison Service on 0800 389 6819 or sneeicb-ws.pals@nhs.net

On the plus side, the CQC reported that staff 'treated patients with kindness, respect, and compassion'. However, the CQC has placed the Melford practice in special measures which means it will be inspected again within six months. If insufficient improvements have been made, the CQC can start the process of stopping the surgery from operating. To see the report go to cqc.org.uk

Dr Christopher Browning, a partner at the practice, said:

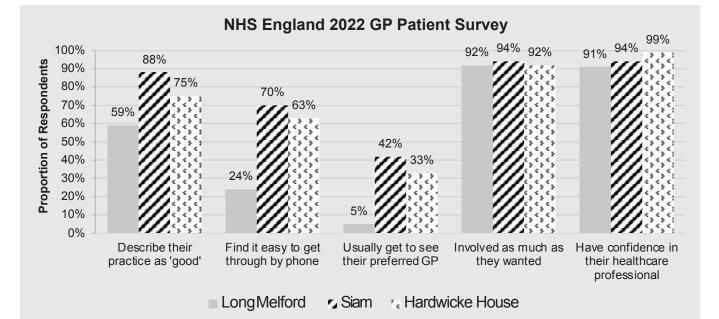

"Clearly, we are very disappointed to have received this CQC rating. We had already recognised that changes needed to be made and we were in the process of making many of these. We are determined to continue to work tirelessly to bring about improvements."

The CQC report came hot on the heels of the results of the 2022 GP Patient Survey. This was commissioned by NHS England and covers every GP Practice in the country. We've compared some of the results for the Melford surgery with two other nearby practices – Siam and Hardwicke House. There were a total of 18 questions and we don't have room to print all the results but you can see them at gp-patient.co.uk particularly difficult to get through on the phone and to see their preferred GP. But once they got an appointment they had confidence in the person they saw and were as involved in decisions about their care and treatment as they wanted to be.

Health Matters

We asked the surgery for its reaction to the survey results and any measures it was taking to improve things in areas where the practice came out poorly compared with other practices.

The Surgery's response

Dr Browning stated the practice's commitment to providing high quality services and apologised to patients who felt their experiences had not been satisfactory. He said:

"While there were some disappointing results, we are pleased to see that the survey found 92% of respondents were involved as much as they wanted to be in decisions about their care and treatment during their last general practice appointment. This is above the national result of 90%."

"We do acknowledge the problem people have experienced booking appointments at our surgery. We have recently introduced a first contact mental health appointment system and first contact appointments for physiotherapy. These offer more focused appointments to the patients in these clinical areas who otherwise would have waited longer to be seen by a doctor."

Dr Browning cited recruitment problems:

"In line with many other areas of the country, our main challenge has concerned workforce and attracting the right skills to support our services. This problem has been exacerbated at our practice because we are situated within a rural location neighbouring towns of Bury St Edmunds and Sudbury have not experienced this issue as acutely as we have."

The Patient Participation Group's response

Anne Hinds, Chair of the Patient Participation Group for the Long Melford practice said "The results are very disappointing and we hope to discuss with the practice how things could be improved at our next meeting."

Remembrance Matters

Melford has a fine tradition of honouring the sacrifice made by members of our armed forces and marking Remembrance Sunday with an impressive parade. This year will be no exception, with three main strands to the Remembrance effort.

The Poppy Appeal in Melford raises an impressive £7,000 to £8,000 each year. The money is used for the welfare of ex-service personnel (and their dependants and carers).

This year's Appeal will run for two weeks leading up to Remembrance Sunday on 13th November There will be a stall outside the Cock and Bell and poppies will be available in most village retail and hospitality venues. Wreaths are also available by emailing longmelfordpoppyappeal@yahoo.com by the end of October.

The Remembrance Garden will be set up around the base of the beacon on the Top Green during the week leading up to Remembrance Sunday and will remain there for the following week. Anyone can contribute any item they wish (eg notes, floral displays) in recognition of those who have served our country.

The Remembrance Service Parade, on the 13th November, will set off from the entrance to Melford Hall opposite the conduit at 10.30am. The parade will lead into the service of remembrance at Holy Trinity and return after the service to Melford Hall Park, by 12.30pm.

Royal British Legion

If you'd like to support the work of the RBL in Melford, why not join the village branch? Membership is open to everyone who shares the values of the Legion, whether or not you have served in the forces. The Branch is also looking for new committee members. For further information, contact branch secretary Martin Richards by emailing rbl.longmelford@gmail.com.

WEDNESDAY 16th NOVEMBER at 11am LES TROIS GRANDES DAMES OF IMPRESSIONISM

Marie Bracquemond, Mary Cassatt & Berthe Morisot

Prominent among the Impressionists but now less well known than their male colleagues. The lives & work of these innovative & radical artists are examined.

Remembrance Matters – Wartime Diary of a Melford Resident

It wasn't only the forces who contributed to the WW2 efforts but civilians at home too. Renowned artist Mary Braithwaite was one such. She lived in Brook House, opposite The Bull, throughout the war.

She was a single lady who divided her time 'between Painting, Work and Pleasure'. Work was mainly as a JP. Pleasure was tennis parties, bridge and dinner parties.

Melford Matters has had an exclusive look at Mary's private diary of the war years. Here are some extracts.

Life before the war

'When war broke out in 1939, I was living here with an excellent cook and two young and obliging maids. The old gardener was in his 45th year of service with our family and a splendid young fellow aged 18 looked after my car, the incubator, 150 chickens and did the "backhouse" work and the lawns.'

Officers billeted in Brook House

'After the war had been going for about nine months, all of us with spare rooms were billeted by the Police with officers and batmen. My first share was four officers and their attendant batmen. One officer was a very undesirable Major whose batman had to help him to bed!'

The back of the house

'The buildings at the back of the house were requisitioned by the War Office in 1939 and as many as 20 troops slept and washed there. The garden was marked as "Out of Bounds" but I allowed the officers the use of the lower garden and lawns and they played tennis, croquet or bowls whenever they liked.'

Brook House in the 1930s – it hasn't changed much over the years Photo: Courtesy of Long Melford Heritage Trust

'On one hot day I sent for the corporal and said that the troops could enjoy the lawns and a quiet afternoon under the trees. On awakening from my usual Sunday Siesta I saw, to my complete consternation, rows of men sprawled out asleep in varying degrees of deshabille and nakedness under my drawing room window.'

Scandal at The Bull

'There was a real proper "camp follower", a blonde, staying at The Bull. I believe she was a spy. The Commanding Officer came to hear about her and how she inveigled the young officers into her net. There was a particularly nice young man billeted here at the time who told me all about it and how difficult it was to keep out of the lady's clutches.'

An invasion of Irishmen and Dockers

'In 1943, the village was invaded by Irishmen and dockers and the Billeting Officer had to find board and lodging for 250 men at almost a moment's notice. Navvies and workmen of all types were urgently needed for the construction of the new aerodrome and for rough work at the new American Hospital.'

Women's Voluntary Service

'Very much against my will, I was enrolled as Comptroller of the village WVS. This was a very tiresome job, largely on account of the quantities of Red Tape at HQ. I took a great delight in cutting this tape.'

Melford Movies

Despite the season starting on a very warm August evening, Melford Movies was delighted to welcome a fabulous audience of over 60 for Fisherman's Friends. Our refreshments were popular – particularly the ice creams – and our raffle raised £96 for St Nicholas Hospice Care. September's screening of Operation Mincemeat was also well attended and raised £84 for Holy Trinity Church Stained Glass Fund. Thanks to everyone who joined us.

Coming up on 14th October we will be greeting old friends as Downton Abbey (Yorkshire's version of Melford Hall!) returns to our screens. The much-anticipated sequel features the excitement and glamour of filming for a silent movie at the Abbey, alongside the intrigue of secrets from the Dowager Countess's past in the South of France.

11th November will see a trip over the water and back in time, to 1960s Northern Ireland for Belfast, Kenneth Branagh's semiautobiographical story of one boy's childhood during the tumult of The Troubles. With scores of award nominations, an Oscar win for its screenplay and the BAFTA for British Film of the Year, as well as a cast including Judi Dench, Jamie Dornan and Ciarán Hinds, the film is a 'must see'.

Doors open at 7pm, with the film starting at 7.30pm. Adults £5; Under 16s £3.

We look forward to welcoming you. For further information, to reserve seats or to join the team, contact us at melfordmovies@icloud.com.

An Action-Packed Summer Camp For The Scouts

The Melford Scouts, aged  $10\frac{1}{2}$  to 14 years, had their  $3\frac{1}{2}$  day summer camp at Thorrington campsite. The camp was planned and run by scout leader Graham Souch. The original camp theme was survival.

Unfortunately however, the hot and dry weather meant that there were restrictions in place so the fire lighting skills and cooking their own food on a camp fire were activities the scouts couldn't do. But the theme was still very much one of survival.

All scouts spent three nights sleeping in the woods. They had no tents but could sleep under tarpaulins or in bivouacs – shelters they made from natural materials found in the site's wooded area. Other activities included rafting, a 3D maze, an adventure run through an assault course and pedal go-karting. They also did a round-trip hike of seven miles to and from Brightlingsea for a fish and chip supper. The camp was another brilliant opportunity, offered by our fantastic village scouting groups.

The Community Association was delighted to run the first Produce Show since 2016 as part of the cracking village fete on 9th July. The wonky vegetable category attracted many admiring glances. The star of the show, however, was the Mystery Category. It was a tricky decision for the judges to choose the overall best in show, but they were unanimous in selecting Jill Lagdon's entry, with her stunning cross-stitch tapestry. Congratulations to her and all those who entered and thanks to those who gave up their time to judge. The plan is to restore the show to its former September slot at the Old School for 2023.

Heritage Matters – Fire Tales from Past to Present

Willing but not Professional

In his book, 'Melford Memories', Ernest Ambrose recalled the unofficial fire fighters of the 1890s. If there was a fire, some men from the Coconut Matting factory went to the back of the Bull to haul the fire appliance out of what is now the Parish Council office. Others went to the stables, 500 yards away, to collect a horse to pull the appliance. One went to whichever pub was nearest to the fire to get beer for his colleagues. Ernest recalled that the hose pipes were never checked and had vivid memories of as much water squirting out of the holes as came out of the nozzles.

A New Engine and a New Station

During the 1930s, Melford got its first full-sized motorised engine and a new station, Foundry House, next to the Cock and Bell. It wasn't long before the brigade had to deal with some devastating fires.

In the summer of 1939, villagers gathered to watch the fire fighters battle a spectacular fire at what was Wash's shop on Hall Street. Others did more than watch, they helped to save the furniture from nearby buildings. The fire destroyed Wash's which stood on the site of what is now the Co-Op.

In 1940, a guest at the Bull was woken up by smoke and crackling flames. He was trapped in his room next to the upstairs lounge, which was his way out of the Bull but engulfed in flames. Needs must and so he resorted to a less orthodox route for his great escape. He knotted the bedsheets together, tied them to a pipe and climbed out of the window. Using the sheets as a rope, he made his way down the considerable drop to ground level.

Willing and Able

The service provided by today's Melford firefighters is a million miles from that provided by the willing amateurs of yesteryear. Melford's on-call crew of 12 have received thorough training and, on top of that, weekly training sessions.

The crew deserves a big thank you. The hot summer has meant a busy time for our firefighters. In July and August alone, they turned out 110 times (almost 100 were field, grass or crop fires). The total call outs for all of 2021 was 140.

Melford has been nominated for the award of Best Station of the Year in Suffolk. We wish them all the very best.

Felix of Long Melford's 70th Anniversary

It wasn't just the Queen celebrating her Platinum Jubilee this year, but Felix of Long Melford too.

In the 1940s, Felix Golynia was in the German army. He ended up as a POW in Long Melford and worked on a farm. Patricia Holder lived in Melford with her family, and during those war years, she and Felix met. At the end of the war, Felix decided to remain in England and carried on working for the farm manager where his duties included driving.

After courting, Felix and Patricia married in 1950 and lived in Cordell Place. In 1952, Felix Taxis of Long Melford started up with just one car. Whilst building up the business, Felix also worked at CAV – a Sudbury factory. Felix Taxis expanded with wedding cars and more taxis. Over the years, their four children (Lucy, Stephen, Mark and Christopher) joined the business. They worked on weddings, long-distance journeys and the taxi service. In 1973, the first minibus was purchased and the business kept expanding with more staff as well as vehicles. In 1976, the business moved to its current home at Windmill Hill, where all the vehicles could be accommodated.

Sadly, Felix passed away suddenly in 1981. Because he was so well known, his funeral service at Holy Trinity was packed, with some having to pay their respects outside the church. The family continued to run the business and over the years they bought out Bears Motors, A-Line Taxis and then Banhams Coaches. Their first vintage coach was a 1947 Bedford OB.

The business grew to include taxis, minibus hire, coach hire, service routes, weddings, funerals and airport transfers. Felix of Long Melford became a member of the Guild of Master Craftsman and was awarded a certificate of merit for good practice for beginning to incorporate accessible transport.

A stitch in time saves the day

Follow that coach

There have been many famous customers over the years, including a well-known travel programme presenter, a TV chef, and a special envoy. There was even a highprofile boxer who spotted the vintage coach in Brighton and followed it until it stopped. He was very keen to buy the coach but his offer was declined! And for the filming of the TV programme Lovejoy, the business provided a hearse, limousine and drivers.

Over the years there have been many notable events but two moments stick out. One day Lucy was chauffeuring a wedding car and when she arrived at the house to collect the bride, the bride revealed that the zip on her dress had split. Lucy sewed the split and concealed the zip whilst the dress was still on the very grateful bride, who got to the church on time!

Business Matters

Chris and Felix helped stop the Great Escape

Chris and Felix had to pick up a prisoner who was handcuffed to a policeman – they needed to get the prisoner to hospital in Ipswich urgently. It was a rather interesting journey as the prisoner tried to escape whilst Chris was driving as fast as possible along the A12. The prisoner attempted to get out of the speeding car whilst both Felix and the policeman were holding onto him and pulling him back into the vehicle. They finally received a police escort to guide them into the hospital and Chris and Felix decided they needed to go home and have a break!

A tribute to "Mrs Felix"

Pat, known to many as "Mrs Felix", worked for the business answering the phones to customers and seeing the drivers in and out at the yard day in, day out. She was still working right until the day before she suddenly passed away in 2010.

Looking to the future

Lucy, Stephen and Christopher are still running the business with taxis, minibuses, coaches and vintage coaches. They have help from the next generation in the form of Teresa, Suzanne and Heather. Steering the way through the pandemic was tough; from having every vehicle on the road to nothing was a sorry sight to see. But things have slowly been getting back to normal. All those at Felix of Long Melford hope more people use the local service buses to keep them viable and, if business returns to its former level, the future looks bright.

Parish Council Matters

Neighbourhood Plan Referendum: 27th October

The Referendum to vote on the Long Melford Neighbourhood Plan will be on Thursday 27th October. Everyone on the Melford electoral roll will be able to vote and will receive a Poll Card or Postal Vote. In the Referendum you're being asked: "Do you want Babergh District Council to use the neighbourhood plan for Long Melford to help it decide planning applications in the neighbourhood area?"

The Plan has taken six years to finalise and, if adopted, will mean that BDC and our Parish Council will need to take the policies in the Plan into account when considering planning applications in Melford.

This is an important opportunity for the village so please exercise your vote.

To view the Plan visit www.longmelfordnp.co.uk. Printed copies are available to read at the Parish Council office, the Library, Breakout, Dilly Dally and Holy Trinity Church.

New Councillor and Clerk

At its August meeting, the Council co-opted Helen Brabner to serve as a Councillor until the next elections in May 2023. Helen says "I was born and raised in the village and have lived here for most of my 60+ years with no desire ever to live anywhere else. I hope to make my contribution, however small, to making and keeping the village great and a place where people want to live and visit."

Don Lovelock, our Parish Clerk, retired on 31st August – thanks very much to him for his service. Our new Clerk is Clare Lee. She started work part-time in September while serving her notice in her previous job and will be full time from October. Welcome aboard to both Helen and Clare.

Nature Matters

Welcoming nature into Long Melford

I write this after the driest summer for decades. A lack of water and rock-hard ground have made life difficult for species such as badgers and moles that dig for earthworms and for birds seeking to drink and bathe. Trees and plants have suffered, including our newly planted hedges that will be replanted this autumn. But insects and the birds that feed on them, including swifts, have fared better.

This extreme weather illustrates the importance gardens play in supporting wildlife. The provision of water in a garden, whether a pond or just a shallow dish, has been a lifeline for many species. And we must continue to provide water throughout the winter. Birds need to bathe all year round to keep their feathers in good order.

Providing food and shelter

We should also provide food and shelter. This can be growing native flowers or keeping a patch of longer grass to encourage insects, to putting out food for hedgehogs and birds. Autumn is a critical time for hedgehogs to get enough food to ensure they can survive winter hibernation. Providing a variety of bird food over the winter can mean the difference between death and survival for many of our small birds.

All creatures need shelter too. Don't be tempted to cut down all the seed heads – they provide shelter for overwintering ladybirds. Leave a pile of logs to shelter wood mice and hedgehogs and remember that bird boxes are not just for nesting but also provide roosting sites for small birds in the winter weather. With our changing climate our wildlife needs as much help as it can get, and each of us can do our bit at home all year round.

The Biodiversity Group continues to do what it can to encourage nature in the wider environment and will again be holding regular working parties to improve the environment at the Country Park and on the Railway Walk. If you'd like to volunteer to help, please contact me or Lisa Tipper (tipperl@longmelford-pc.gov.uk)

Gardening Matters – Notes from the potting shed

When and how to prune your shrubs

The topic we receive the most questions about is pruning so we are devoting all our space in this issue to that (sometimes) thorny topic. The first requirement is sharp and clean tools such as secateurs and a pruning saw. This will reduce the chance of introducing infection to your plants by leaving an uneven cut. The other thing to remember is not to get stressed about pruning, usually any unwise chopping does no long-term damage!

Why is pruning even necessary? For ornamental plants, the risk if they are left unpruned is that they will become too large and many will only develop new growth from their extremities, creating a mass of bare woody stems and blooms only on the high boughs.

Consider when your shrubs flower: if you have shrubs which drop their leaves in winter (deciduous plants) and flower between July and October, spring pruning is preferable, reducing the plant to a couple of buds from the main stem. This group includes buddleia, fuchsia and hydrangea. Deciduous shrubs flowering between November and June should be pruned immediately after flowering. Cut flowering stems as low as possible and aim to thin out the plant by about one third. This group includes flowering currants, philadelphus and weigela.

Wisteria, Lavender and Clematis

The specific plants we have been asked about recently are wisteria, lavender and clematis. Taking these in turn, here's a neat way to remember the optimum pruning of wisteria: just think 2/2 and 7/7. That means growth should be cut to two buds from the main stem in February and to seven buds in July. That should increase your chances of a glorious display in May and a reasonably manageable plant during the summer.

Regular pruning will give wisteria blooms like this Lavender should be cut immediately after flowering, usually in August, but be sure to leave some of the leafy growth intact and never cut into the woody stems.

Clematis is slightly more complicated as there are three groups of clematis and each requires different pruning treatment. The main thing to avoid is spring pruning of stems that were destined to produce flowers that year. To guard against this, just remember: 'if it flowers before June, don't prune!' – wait until after flowering to tidy up.

In the next issue we will be looking at fruit bush and fruit tree pruning. Meanwhile, don't forget the fabulous potted bulbs available at the Christmas Fair at the library on Saturday 26th November, from 10am to 12.30pm.

Pause For Thought

Retired, retyred, or refired?

I went to a talk the other day by someone reflecting on their experiences of retiring. There were two things in particular that struck me. Firstly, the assumption (in our society at least) that the instant you retire you are consigned to mindlessly sipping wine on the patio or going on cruises – if you can afford to. Secondly, it was felt that there is little respect for older people these days. So when you retire you basically become isolated, drunk ... and maybe seasick!

Thankfully there is a way of retiring which I have seen wonderfully demonstrated by many of our parishioners. Yes there is an adjustment to make as new roles and relationships are found, and as some of the reins of responsibility are handed over. This could be called 'retyring'. But having made adjustments, retirees can actively and positively contribute to family and community over many years ... as God provides the vision and means to do so. This is 'refiring'.

So, let us challenge our assumptions about the more 'mature' members of our community, and let us thank God for the enormous contribution many of them are able to make.

Rev Lawson

Sport Matters

Rain Stopped Play

After an indifferent start to the season, both Saturday teams found themselves in the bottom half of their respective leagues. Happily, the second half of the season saw much improvement.

Josh Burgess, our 1st XI skipper, scored 100+ four times and Lawrence Hall took 7 wickets against close rivals Ipswich. The 2nd XI outstanding player was Brett Wright with one century and eleven 50s.

Both teams began their final games with their fate in their own hands. But both matches ended prematurely thanks to heavy downpours. Fortunately, all of our rivals' games were also abandoned. So the points were shared equally by all teams. This meant both our sides avoided relegation. Sadly, the Sunday 2nd XI was relegated but the Sunday 1st XI finished in the top half of the table.

Football with Food at Stoneylands

It's been a positive start to the new season. Two wins, two defeats and a draw saw us starting September in 9th place. All that with a new look group that includes over 10 new signings and many graduates from the club reserves and U18's. Some tough games and a long season lie ahead but nonetheless the boys have come out fighting and the future is looking positive.

LMFC's popular Saturday morning Soccer School for Under-8s will run throughout the season from 9.30am to 10.30am. If you'd like to bring your child along, please email rob.bowden@the-sun.co.uk.

The club has a new caterer, Sudbury-based Spectre Leisure. Club chairman Geoff Thomas said: "We're delighted to team up with Spectre who have a proven track record of catering at sports events."

They'll also be providing catering for non-football events. including a Grand Quiz Night on 21st October and The Big Bingo Night on 4th November."

New Age Kurling (no, it's not a spelling mistake) We started New Age Kurling in 2017. With financial help from Richard Kemp and practical help from Nick Pringle of Fit Villages (Suffolk Sport), we bought two sets of Kurling equipment – stones, target mats and pushers (so, there's no bending down to launch the stones).

We meet in the Village Hall on the first and third Thursdays of each month from 2pm till 4pm. We have 25 people on our books and, on average, 16 attend each session. There's no membership fee; just turn up on the day for a charge of £3 which includes tea and biscuits in the break. Your first session is free. It's quite competitive but fun. You don't need a particular skill, just a bit of practice – anyone can play, including wheelchair users.
